DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 3-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kuo (2003/0077107) in view of Meyer et al. (4,236,651).

Kuo discloses a stem portion for a toothbrush including a stem body 31(fig. 3b-3c and 6a-b) having an interior longitudinal opening 31, a core member 33 configured to fit within the stem body opening. Kuo fails to disclose grooves as claimed.

Meyer teaches a core member (fig. 6) having longitudinal grooves 33a for throughflow channel. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify Kuo by providing multiple channel by grooves as taught by Meyer for providing fluid/dentifrice through multiple ports into the bristles of the toothbrush. Note that neither Kuo or Meyer disclose a stem body having grooves, however it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify Kuo by providing grooves that corresponds to groove of Meyer so that circular channel can be formed, if one desires do so. For example, if one desire to have a square longitudinal channel, then one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made would realize to create semi square shape groove (as oppose to semi circular groove of Meyer) on the core member and the same to the stem body so that a square shaped channel could be achieved. Further, Kuo discloses fluid pathways and ribs and the stem body includes slot for locking purposes. Kuo is silent about the two extending ribs are being welded to the stem body. However, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to connect two mechanical members by welding or other means since applicant has not disclosed that this solves any stated problem or is anything more than one of numerous shapes or configuration a person of ordinary skill in the art would find obvious for the purpose of providing an obliquely inclined housing. In re Dailey and Eilers, 149 USPQ 47 (1966). It is noted that the claims 6-7 recites "adapted to" language. It has been held that the recitation that an element is "adapted to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138. Furthermore, it has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
